

PLAN YOUR VERMONT WINE TRAIL

WHAT'S INSIDE:

Detailed information on a host of Vermont wineries and vineyards and a map showing locations.

Create your own Vermont wine trail using our guide to Vermont vineyards and wineries. Visit scenic areas, spend time with friends and family, and meet fellow wine lovers.

Why Do We Differentiate Between Vineyards and Wineries?

Vineyards grow the grapes for their wines on their property and create their own juices to make their wines. At Snow Farm Vineyard our wine exhibits our terroir, meaning our wines get their flavor profiles from the soil and climate of our region.

Wineries that do not have a vineyard, make their wines by purchasing grapes from outside sources, or more often juices, in the varieties that they need for their wine recipes.

At Snow Farm Vineyard and Winery, you'll enjoy the scenic grounds and learn how local conditions influence the flavor of wine.

Wondering which vineyards have live music and which have food?

For detailed information about vineyards and wineries open to the public, categorized by county, see the guide on the following pages. To see where each vineyard and/or winery is located and get directions use this Google map.

Note: This is not a comprehensive list of Vermont wineries and vineyards. We've listed only those we're aware are open to the public. Call ahead for hours. Many vineyards are open seasonally and close temporarily during harvest season in the fall.*
